dedication—

the hallmark of the men on these pages. Just a glance at these faces soon reveals interest, enthusiasm, vitality, a sense of humor; but we knew them for another quality that no picture can ever capture—determination, the day-to-day conviction that they wanted to give us something they believed in. Now it is our turn, and so we are also giving by dedicating this, our 1964 MEMINI, to these, THE DEDICATED, these who are truly MEN WE WANT TO BE.

IN MEMORIAM

What did the passing of John Fitzgerald Kennedy mean to our nation. In some senses, seemingly very little. The torch is passed. We have our new president. Our cabinet, Congress and Supreme Court remain unchanged. The government process goes on. But ours is a nation of individuals, not of cogs. In these terms, what did we lose? A man whose wisdom seemed to belie his years, whose foresight surpassed the myopic limits of many, whose outspoken solicitude for justice pricked the conscience of a nation, whose pervasive wit brightened many an otherwise routine state function, whose unflinching resolution in the face of coercion met well the Communist challenge. In these terms our loss is inestimable and it is in these terms that Americans prefer to measure human value. Society needs "up" forces; he definitely was a strong one.

But beyond these qualities, he showed American youth an example of dedication to the ideal of service. He did not need to busy himself with a career in public service, but he did, willingly; if he had not, he would more than likely be alive today. As he phrased it himself in his 1962 State of the Union address, "We sometimes chafe at the burden of our obligations, the complexity of our decisions, the agony of our choices. But there is no comfort or security for us in evasion, no solution in abdication, no relief in irresponsibility." As he spoke, so he lived; as he lived, so he died. It is therefore essential that we include John Fitzgerald Kennedy in any thinking we do about the MEN WE WANT TO BE.

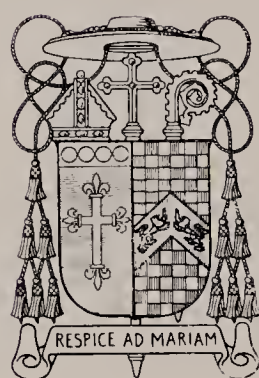

For his devotion to his work and to his people, for his dedication to the high ideals of our faith, we number him among the Men We Want To Be.

MOST REVEREND BERNARD J. FLANAGAN

thoughts from my rocking chair . . .

Preparatory School education is too often seen as only in-between education. It carries a boy from thirteen to nineteen years of age, from childhood to manhood, from grammar school to college. The statement that it prepares students for college and for life only serves to blur still further the truth that these four rich years should be lived for themselves as much as any other time of a man's life. Finally, the current competition for college acceptance places further stress yet on preparing for tomorrow with the consequent danger of forgetting about today.

I would like to underline that no small part of your education at Assumption has been precisely what you did not do specifically in preparation for tomorrow. There has been the worship of God as a fulfillment of a present obligation, the enjoyment of an unassigned book, the attendance at the Music Festival, a visit to the Museum, the cheering of a team on to victory, a budding friendship, your answer to the question: "What can I do for my school?"

But there has been more. There has been the daily contact with those who have devoted their lives to Christian education. These have not thought so much in terms of tomorrow but in terms of lasting values. They lived each day with you in the light of the importance that each day held. You have made them the theme of your yearbook. You wish to honor the DEDICATION that you have witnessed and benefitted from during your four years at Assumption. By doing so, you reveal that you have not been blind to the education you have received or to the values for which it stands.

Dear Father

12/4/98

Just so you know a little About Dave I marked this Page. He was killed by a Hit and Run Driver in 97. He did enter
The Religious Life and was a monk at St Joseph's Abbey for quite Sometime. I know in my heart he would want the books back at Assumption for others to enjoy instead of collecting dust at my home. p. 38 lower left.

Thank you

A Friend In Christ

Bobby Monahan

what steps we took!

As Frosh: Assumption puts out its mat to "the most potential class" ... the orientation grind ... We go to the N.E. Catholic Tourney ... the field day upset ... the "Hurricanes" ... one down, three to go.

Sophomores: The "wise fools" ... the luxury of a pool table ... no ties in football ... the twist ... "Will I last???"

Juniors: Upper classmen! class rings ... all the privileges—TV lounge, school dances, rooms, and Physics ... Phys. Ed. ... a 17 and 1 tennis record ...

Seniors: The big college sweat ... S.I.P. re-freezing ... prom problem ... dues, dues, dues.

These years represent a struggling effort to form ourselves into men under the tutelage of our teachers—MEN WE WANT TO BE.

what we did

What do masques, math, and music have in common? Only this—they are all symbols and all points on the broad scale that was our Assumption experience. Through clubs as well as classes, we have followed in steps and taken our own steps toward becoming the men we want to be. We have brought culture and contribution a little closer together in our own lives through active participation—an integral part of the lives of all the men we want to be.

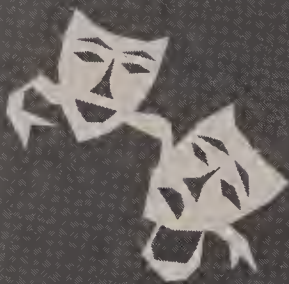

The Prep's Catholic Youth Council also is a symbol—a symbol of the integrating spirit that underlies all our activities, helping us to remember by its seal and slogan, by the efforts of its dynamic moderator and his group, that many means can still lead to a single end—becoming THE MEN WE WANT TO BE.

Saint John's Guild

The aim of the Saint John's Guild is the early formation of future religious. Under the capable direction of our moderator, the members spend an hour each week discussing in detail the priesthood and the religious life. The discussion helps the members to decide whether they have a calling to such a life. Though not all of the members finally become priests, they do begin to understand the meaning of these words by THE MAN that ALL MEN WANT TO BE: "If thou wilt be perfect, go sell what thou hast, and give to the poor, and come, follow Me."

service corps

The Tom Dooley Service Corps exists to provide students with opportunities to help people who "ain't got it so good." The only membership requirements are two hours of service each week and good will.

In the spirit of the late doctor, our brigade is in action every Wednesday and Saturday at the Nazareth Home for Boys, Saint Francis Home for the Aged, Little Sisters of the Assumption, and—since this year—the John Augustus Home for Boys.

Y Youthfulness

Young Christian Students is a form of lay apostolate; that is, it is a movement of students bound together by the common purpose of advancing Christ in the school. The means is not preaching or teaching but rather trying to attain the best possible atmosphere. The ultimate goal actually is the cultivation, both in the members and in their classmates, of an awareness of the world around us—in order to do something about it.

memini

For the group that put this book together, Memini represents more than a mere collection of school-day memories. It has in it (along with the pictures, art work, copy, and the rest) afternoon thrash-outs in third-floor classrooms, education in the publishing trade, and a rigorous apprentice course in brinkmanship. It also has in it a dash of pride—ours— in having been able to serve up for our class this record of their four years at the School.

Paris par ici, the Prep's French club, is for its members a source of pleasure and enrichment. The informal atmosphere of the regular Monday meetings affords an opportunity for valuable practice in conversational French. Occasionally the members also have the added treat of a guest lecturer who with expertness provides a valuable insight into the French language and tradition. Most of all the club stands as another example of how to use leisure time productively.

Mu Alpha Theta, Assumption's honorary mathematics society, serves both to acknowledge past achievement, and to foster continued interest in mathematics. Members prepare math fair exhibits and competitive examinations which provide valuable opportunities to increase their knowledge. In addition, the society publishes a math journal, consisting entirely of articles written by its members.

glee club

The Glee Club provides the student with opportunities to become better rounded. The sense of accomplishment in the ability to harmonize, to produce a pleasing sound with the voice, to know that it is you who brought the notes to life—these are rich rewards that help us to understand the value of leisure—a value well understood by the MEN WE WANT TO BE.

EXPLORERS

Explorer Post 31 is the largest and certainly one of the most active posts in the United States. It serves as a source of guided activity like hunting, camping, fishing, hiking, boating, and woodlore. It aids the school and its community. Finally, it helps form its members into physically active, intellectually alert, socially conscious, and spiritually alive young men. In these ways, Post 31 has done its bit in the job of showing us how to become the MEN WE WANT TO BE.

To the right, from tap to battam: 1. Canada-bound Explarers, acting as Mossachusetts representatives, accept, fram Governor Peabody, a govel to be presented to the Canadion Prime Minister. 2. Explorers at Bailly Hall take the certification exam in the Hunter's Safety Course. 3. Gearge Perreault, after a dip in Lake Onway, New Hampshire. 4. Just a U-Haul and we-all are ready for the Canada jaunt.

All great men have acknowledged the broadening values, the humanizing effects, of social functions. We found our Big Event to be that way too.

how we looked

School life has many sides, some serious, some slight, but all important. These pages show a little of both. One of the qualities that all the men we want to be seem to possess is a sense of proportion and to season that, a sense of humor. That is what these pages do not show—but it is there and we think we have acquired it—at least a little of it.

how we competed

The will to win, the grace to lose, the courage, determination, and self-knowledge that so many great men have admitted they have gained from playing in organized athletics—these are the benefits we hoped to gain and these are the ones we know many of us have gained—benefits we are confident will help us in becoming MEN WE WANT TO BE.

football

Football builds character as well as muscle. The team of "little guys" that practices vigorously on the "heights" on those fall afternoons reaps many advantages from its eight-game schedule, sometimes in victory, many other times in defeat, but always in pride. They tried!

basketball

Basketball demands speed, agility, accuracy. It also requires presence of mind, adaptability, and the perseverance to practice. With twenty games in between, those who do not have all these in November definitely have most of them by March. Every game is a big one; as the record shows, we were up for a lot of them.

baseball

Baseball, the most popular of the spring sports, is a good character builder. Coach Flagg's discipline, timing, attention to details like stance, signals, and base running are just a few of the game's benefits. Team spirit and common sense are just two of its lasting effects. That's why any season can be a successful one for a boy who works at it.

tennis

Tennis brings out one of the most important characteristics of greatness: self-reliance. Except in doubles, a boy is all alone on the court; and what he does out there is his own responsibility. This fact and a thirteen-game schedule including some of New England's strong competition make the season worthwhile.

track

Track is a sport that requires strength, speed, and stamina. It also requires a lot of perseverance. We don't know how the 1964 season will turn out but we think these boys have enough of all it takes to make a good show of it.
